Individuals who were separated by a conflict, in particular non-accompanied children, must be dealt with and recorded so as to bring the families together again.

Enter the module all at the same time and try to look during one silent minute at as many photographs as possible and listen to the sounds.

Then specify three feelings which you experience in front of these photographs and with these sounds, and after that for each feeling write three terms which you would like to say to the families separated by war.
